

Podcast adblock user stories

1. As a logged-in, busy podcast listener, I don't have time to listen to all my favorite podcasts. I want to be able to listen to podcasts without ads so I can listen to more episodes and not be distracted. When I listen to a podcast, I want the displayed duration to be accurate and not include the skipped advertisements.
2. As a prospective user, I want to be able to create an account. When I create an account, I want the service to walk me through adding my favorite podcasts to my home page. I want to be presented with rows of horizontal carousels of podcasts sorted by category.
3. As a logged in user playing a podcast, I want to be able to press a button to toggle between listening with adblock enabled and disabled.
4. As a logged in user playing a podcast, I want the program to identify sections of the podcasts it has identified as being advertisements. The program should allow users to force playback of a section identified as being an advertisement with a "unskip ad" button.
5. As a logged in user, I want to be able to see which new podcast episodes are out for the podcasts I'm subscribed to.
6. As a logged in user, I want to be able to log out. When I log in again, I want the app to remember my information.
7. As a logged in user, when I open the app, I want to see a listing of podcasts I've added to my home page. When I click on a podcast's listing, I want to be taken to a list of episodes in reverse chronological order. When I play an episode, I want to be taken to a player screen that clearly communicates when ads are being skipped.